QUESTION OF THE WEEK

How many camels did Rebekah offer to water for Abraham's servant?

Have you heard things like 'the oceans are rising, the polar bears are dying, we only have five or ten years to do something before the earth collapses, and there is no planet B. It seems as though the climate alarmists want us to panic and change everything to stop 'climate change'. But the truth is that this is not 'settled science' – in fact it isn't even science at all, but instead based on someone's models and guesses and a model is only as good as the data fed into it. We are told that we need to stop using fossil fuels – but it is those very fuels that provide inexpensive and reliable energy which people depend on. Most countries depend on imported oil and other fossil fuels for energy production, which causes a dependency on foreign governments. When costs go up, the poor spend more of their income on utilities and consumer goods. It also means fewer jobs if countries do not produce their own energy. Did you know that the US now imports about 72% of its crude oil from other nations? Only five years ago, we were importing 0% and were in fact exporting oil and gas to other countries. The countries from which we import fuels have little or no environmental protection policies which actually causes the amount of global emissions to increase!

There is also geologic evidence and data that the earth has been significantly warmer and had much higher CO2 levels in the past and all types of life thrived. Historical records record a medieval warm period (300-1250 AD) during which parts of Greenland were farmed. (but is now covered in ice) Warmer temperatures actually extend the growing season and increase food supplies. But cooler temperatures slow agricultural food growth as was seen in the 'little ice age' than followed the medieval warm period around 1300 A.D. The NASA Earth Observatory notes three particularly cold intervals. One began about 1650, another about 1770, and the last in 1850, all of which were separated by intervals of warming. Did you know that cold causes more human deaths than heat waves.

When governments try to mandate climate policies, we need to consider their motives. These policies always try to change the economics and political makeup of the country – which will have far reaching consequences and gives the government more power. The Paris climate Agreement is aimed at reducing CO2 emissions and global warming by 2 degrees by 2050. But the fact is that even if all things proposed were done, even the most optimistic projections say they would lower the average temperature by only .17 degrees in the next 100 years and would cost 70-140 trillion dollars to implement with no guarantee of it even working. The 'green new deal' of retrofitting buildings, switching to wind and solar will cost up to 9 trillion dollars annually, again with no guarantee of it having any significant impact on the climate.

We do not need to give in to the fear promoted by those seeking more power for themselves. God is in control of His creation and He will sustain it. God has promised in Genesis 8:22 "As long as the earth endures, seed time and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night will never cease."
