QUESTION OF THE WEEK

What two bible books are named after women?

True story from Sharon Jaynes as published in "Christianity Today"

Lisa was a bartender and a cocktail waitress, a fun loving girl who partied every chance she got. She had grown up in a Christian home and had gone forward to be baptized when she was eight years old. But in her twenties, Lisa put Jesus aside to live the wild life in the far country. Then one day she discovered she was pregnant and her fast-paced life came to a abrupt stop. After several home tests, she decided she needed an 'official' test and got in her car and headed to Planned Parenthood where she had gotten her contraceptives. She knew they would encourage her to have an abortion and frankly, she was committed to continuing her partying life-style without interruption. But on the way, something happened. She saw a building with the sign "Pregnancy Care Center", and felt as if God was calling her to pull into the parking lot. Here is what happened in her own words:

"I remember it like it was yesterday. From the moment I got out of the car, I felt the Lord was with me. I walked into the center and was met by a woman with a nice, warm, and caring smile – not just an 'I'm doing my job smile', but a caring smile. She came over, met me, introduced herself, touched my arm and said 'We're here to help'. The love, compassion, confidence, and sensitivity in her voice made me feel like I had just walked into the arms of Jesus. We talked and she listened. We discussed how I felt and what I wanted out of life for me and my baby. She called it a baby, not a pregnancy like so many others."

She confirmed the test was positive and gave me a due date. I remember hearing her words and the Holy Spirit using her words to assure me that it would be OK, but that I would have to change! A week or two went by and this woman called to check on me as ask how I was doing. I thought – "Wow, she cares!" I went to my doctor to begin my prenatal appointments and he did an ultrasound. He had some bad news. He said I had a problem in my uterus, that the embryo had some sort of separation from the uterus. He said "It will not live. Your body will not be able to carry to term and you can easily abort it at this stage and get back to your normal life. This does not have to be an interruption." But as he talked, I was listening. I was listening to him, but I was also listening to a voice in my ear that was saying 'It's going to be fine and you're going to be fine.' When the doctor came back in, I looked at him and said 'I'm not having an abortion. I'm having my baby.'

Well, Lisa did have her baby. Jordan Holt was born weighing 7 pounds, 5 oz and 20 inches long. Perfectly healthy and beautiful. We do not know how our interaction with those we meet will affect their lives. We are the Lord's ambassadors in everything we do.
